

The Chain of Kindness

Kindness is something we currently need in the world. In the words of Johann Wolfgang, "Kindness is the golden chain by which society is bound together."

This quote means so much to me, It means that kindness is the chain reaction of itself which can spread anytime someone starts the chain of kindness. It is ever lasting as long as there are always lots of kind people in the world, just like you.

I like this quote because it really describes what kindness means to me and how creative it is. The quote represents kindness as a chain that brings society together. I find the quote very creative and unique.

I can help spread kindness by making that one choice, and that is, to be kind to others even if i'm in a bad mood. The more people make that choice, and kindness will be around the corner.
