

“Invent your own wings because not everybody flies the same way or at the same time”

This quote means to take instead of waiting for be an opportunity big or small like talking to a friend you haven't spoken to in a while or is to spread your wings

the opportunity by yourself someone to give it to you. It could auditioning for Broadway. The point even if it takes a long time.

I made up the quote and I just really liked it. I had a different version I wanted to do but the point was to spread kindness not to bring people down. Sharing your creations should be fun, not depressing.

It's hard to spread kindness nowadays considering the pandemic people avoid other people and stare instead of smile, but I think it's good not to judge since everyone has been doing a lot of things to cope with the stress of the pandemic.

I think it's important to spread kindness because again it's a tough time and makes it harder to stay in a good mood since we have all these restrictions so spreading kindness is quite literally essential for staying healthy and happy.
