Telemaque talks kindness, bullying at Westmount Park School

Students at Westmount Park School got some lessons in anti-bullying and the importance of promoting kindness and inclusivity in March when speaker Svens Telemaque dropped by. Recognized for his impactful work in youth development and prison reform, Telemaque serves as a cultural advisor to the Parole Board of Canada. He led the students in a workshop held in conjunction with Violence and Bullying Prevention Week, promoted by the Quebec ministry of Education.

New costs: $17,246

Cost of southeast design contract raised by council to $161,000

BY LAUREEN SWEENEY

City council approved an additional amount for design costs related to the city's contract with Lemay consultants for the proposed re-development of the city's southeast sector.

This plan focusses on an irregular area extending from Dorchester north to Sherbrooke that includes the city-owned Tupper parking lots and the commercial area on Greene. It has been the subject of two public consultation meetings in the last year starting June 12 (see story June 11, 2024, p. 7).

As a result, city council at a special meeting April 22 adopted a resolution for an additional amount totalling some $17,246 for the design contract awarded in Jan-
